

HIGHCON HIGHLIGHTS

November 2017

Dear Bob,

So now we're down to less than 50 days to Christmas and the holidays, and most of us will be racking our brains about what to give as gifts. I'm sure you would agree that the packaging is almost as important as the gift itself!

Giftgiving e-book

The giving of gifts is big business and the packaging of those gifts is something all of us can identify with. Check out our free e-book on the Gifting industry. Successful gifts are unique, special and memorable and packaging has a key role delivering those values.

Highcon digital technology enables premium packaging for quantities down to 1. The ability to produce intricate cutouts, shapes and etching that cannot be done conventionally can add real value to any gift, making an everlasting impression.

Gafs Kartong - prestige packaging for a prestige brand

Read how Gafs Kartong helped ensure a successful launch with an exclusive invitation.

Lasse Svärd, Sales Director and Co-owner of Gafs Kartong: "This case is a great example of a short run, one-off production. As it was for a special event, the invitation contributed directly to the success of the event. The package itself will live on for some time as a trophy for the exclusive few who received it."
